THURSDAY, JULY 21. 1737.

91°646.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from France.

ACCORDING to Letters of the 11th Instant from Paris, they have had Advice from Warsaw, That the Grand Vizier having passed the Danube with his whole Army, marched in Order of Battle against that of the Russians, whose Front was arrived within 2 German Miles from Oczakow; and that by the Motion which he had made to cover that Place, he had on the Right, the Left, and in the Centre of it, 3 considerable Bodies, with Artillery.

They take Notice, that by the Death of Gaston de Medicis, Duke of Florence, who was the Son of Cosmo III. by Margaretta Louisa of Orleans, and succeeded him in 1723, a Pension reverts to the King of 4,500,000 Livres, which his Majesty was to pay annually to the Duke of Lorrain. It seems the Jews particularly manifested their Wishes for the Recovery of the late Duke's Health, by fasting one whole Day upon Bread and Water, and by distributing to the Poor, both Jews and Christians, a great Quantity of Bread, and 2000 Ells of Cloth. The Electoress Dowager Palatine, his Sister, was likewise very charitable upon the same Occasion, and sent 1000 Sequins to the Parsons of that City, to be distributed among the Poor of their Parishes.

Those of June 25, from Stockholm, say, the Dutch Minister there renews his Complaints from Time to Time of the Navigation of the Swedish East-India Company; and that he went so far lately as to tell the Count de Horn, that the Directors of the Dutch Company were in a Condition to ruin the Navigation of the Swedish Company all at once: Upon which, they say, the Count de Horn made Answer, that the Kings of Sweden were not used to make Grants to their good Subjects of Things which they had no Authority for; and that let the Dutch act as they list, Sweden was always in a Condition to do itself Justice.

Amsterdam, July 1. 'Tis apprehended that the New Tariff in Agitation between the Powers concerned, will not be easily settled; for besides the Design there is at Vienna and Brussels, to make certain Regulations which are known to be directly contrary to the Commerce of the two Maritime Powers in the Netherlands, we are more and more persuaded in this Country, that the Emperor will insist upon Leave to send 2 or 3 Ships annually to China, and some to Bengal, as the only effectual Means to hinder the total Ruin of the Austrian Provinces.

As to Berg and Juliers, the principal Difficulty in that Affair at present is the Unwillingness of the Maritime Powers to employ any Means but their good Offices; whereas the Emperor and France would have all the Four Mediatorial Powers agree together, to declare against the chief of the Claimants of that Succession; which would be to declare against the King of Prussia: But there's the same Disposition in the Government of the United Provinces, as there is in that of England, to act with Deliberation, and to employ none but gentle Methods, and the best Advices, to reconcile the Parties concerned. Mean time, 'tis suspected more than ever, that the Courts of Vienna and Versailles favour the House of Sultzbach; and in this the latter of those Courts has a particular View, if it be true, as we are assur'd, that they are very intent upon negociating a Marriage between a Princess of France, and the Presumptive Heir of the Elector Palatine.

Private Letters from Venice say, that Republick has not yet enter'd into any Engagement with the Emperor and Russia, for a War against the Turks; and the Politicians of that Country have found out several Reasons for the Senate's not taking a rash Resolution in an Affair of such Importance. They observe, that three Years ago, when the Emperor was at War with France, which exhorted the Porte at the same Time to break with the Court of Vienna, the Venetians, fearing that the Porte might listen to the Sollicitations of the Most Christian King, and that they should be involved in that Rupture, renewed the Treaty of Passarowitz, without the Participation or Knowledge of his Imperial Majesty, and thereby put themselves under a Sort of Impossibility of finding a plausible Pretext to fall out with the Turks, with Honour: Which Proceeding of theirs must naturally have made ill Impressions at the Court of Vienna, who think they have as much Reason to complain, as the Venetians had to blame the Emperor's Conduct at the Congress of Passarowitz, where his Imperial Majesty is charged with not having kept the Interests of the Venetian Republick sufficiently in View.

These Advices add, that the Czarina has indeed for some Time past been labouring to heal the Misunderstanding, and that Reciprocal Diffidence betwixt those two Powers, but what Success she has had cannot yet be affirmed; tho' it is certain, that Princess has given the most solemn Promise, that she will not lay down her Arms, till she has put the Republick in Possession of the Morea. They remember, moreover, at Venice, that in 1718, when the Emperor was in a fair Way to humble the Pride of the Crescent, he was stopp'd in the Midst of his Career, by the Descent which the Spaniards made upon the Island of Sardinia; and, say their Politicians, we are not very certain, at this Juncture, that no such Danger will happen; because we are fully perswaded that the Maritime Powers will refuse to guarantee the Stipulations of the Treaty of Vienna between the Emperor and France. This Article very much engrosses the Attention of the Venetians, who are, moreover, inform'd, that there are Proposals on the Carpet, of an Alliance between the Princes and States of Italy, for the Maintenance of their Tranquillity, and the Prerogatives of the Crown of Spain.

Letters of the 22d ult. O. S. from Belgrade say, that 2 Days before the Duke of Lorrain and Count Seckendorff went by Water to the Imperial Army; and that for two Days past all Hands had been employ'd in landing and carrying off the Heavy Artillery, which consists of 90 Mortars and 100 Cannon. They write from Nissa, that the Turks there are so afraid of the Germans, that most of them are fled, and have left their Wives and Children behind.

Those of the 29th from Vienna say, that a great Piece of Amber, of an immense Value, arriv'd there from Amsterdam, was sent forward that very Day to Constantinople, for the Grand Seignior. They say now that the Congress is actually assembled at Nimirow, and that a Cessation of Arms has been there agreed upon for a Month. It was reported at the same time, that on the 14th or 15th ult. an Action happened between the Russians and Turks, to the Disadvantage of the former; and that the Turks and Tartars are marching in 2 Bodies, with a Design, if they can, to roast the Russian Army between 2 Fires.

From Elbing they pretend to Advice, that the Siege of Oczakow is very much push'd on, since the 20th ult. That the Grand Vizier, who had quitted his Camp at Bender, but left the Baggage behind, was arrived in Sight of the Russian Army, with a Design, as 'twas believed, to force the Russians to a Battle, and to raise the Siege; but it seems the latter are very well posted in their Camp, to give them a hot Reception.

SCOTLAND.

Edinburgh, July 14. Upon the 5th of July Inst. being the first Sederunt of the Convention of the Royal Boroughs of Scotland, Patrick Lindsay, Esq; Member of Parliament for the City of Edinburgh, and a Member of this Convention from the City of St. Andrews, acquainted the Convention, that he was charged with a Message from the Right Hon. Arthur Onslow, Esq; Speaker of the House of Commons, to this Honourable Convention.

That when he had the Honour to wait on the Speaker before he left London, he laid his Commands upon him, to make his Compliments to this Honourable Convention in the most respectful Manner, and to acquaint them that he had accepted of the Present of Table of Linen they had sent him last Winter, with the same Mind and Intention which they had; that was, to promote the Improvement and Extension of the Linen Manufacture of this Country, where, in his Opinion, it might be carried on to the greatest Advantage, for the general Good of the whole Kingdom: And as the Speaker had greatly at Heart the Prosperity of every National Manufacture, he assured this Honourable Convention, that so far as his Interest and Influence went, they might rely upon it, that it should be (on every proper Occasion) imployed to promote the Manufacture of Home-made Linen; and in the mean time, as a Testimony of his good Will and sincere Intention, to encourage so valuable a Branch of Business, he had made a Present of 100 l. Sterling, to be applied for encouraging the Manufacture of Table Linen, in such Manner as this Honourable Convention should think most proper, to attain the End by him propos'd.

And the Convention having remitted to a Committee of their Number, to consider in what Manner the above-mentioned Sum should be laid out, so as to answer the End for which it was given, the Committee gave it as their Opinion, that it should be given in Prize Money to such as should make the best Table Linen in the Years 1738, 1739 and 1740, by those equal Divisions; which Report was approven by the Convention, and the Money appointed to be paid over by their Agent to such as should gain these Prizes.

Last Tuesday the Jury returned their Verdict in the Criminal Process against James Gray, Gardener in Leith, for sending Incendiary Letters to the Countess of Wemyss, &c. finding the Pannel Guilty; and Yesterday the High Court of Justiciary sentenced him to be Pillor'd on Wednesday next, and transported to his Majesty's Plantations for Life.

The same Day the Faculty of Advocates chose two of their Number from the Candidates for the Office of Professor of Municipal Law in this University, vacant by the Death of Mr. Alexander Bayne, viz. Mr. John Erskine of Cornock, younger, and Mr. Balfour of Pilrig, and presented them to the Magistrates and Town Council, who, by Act of Parliament, on such Presentation, have the Power of Election out of two so presented; and Yesterday Mr. John Erskine was unanimously elected to that Office.

The write from Dumbarton, that the Magistrates and Council having Information, that his Majesty was graciously pleased to promote Colonel Campbell of Mamore, Member of Parliament for Dumbartonshire, and Provost of that Burgh, to the Command of a Regiment of Foot, the Magistrates and Common-Council, attended by the principal Inhabitants, gave an Entertainment to the Officers of the Garison, and several Gentlemen of the Neighbourhood, when they drank their Majesties Healths, Prince and Princess of Wales, the Royal Family, his Grace the Duke of Argyle, with many other Loyal Healths, and shewed great Demonstrations of Joy on account of their Provost's Promotion.
